Activity

Snowboarding

Up Woody Ridge. Single pit at 9000ish, or higher, just before snowpack thins towards tree line before ridge line, was interesting. 1.2 to 1.4 M deep. Layer at 18-24 inches from top that was reactive (at 24 with partial propagation) and another layer about 2 feet from bottom that came out with work. All in all it gave us a reason to think about what seemed to be a no brainer. Glad we dug.
