

East Republic

Date

Tue, 03/23/2021 - 06:52

Activity

Skiing

Good morning!

I skied the trees/low angle glades on East Republic yesterday afternoon. Snowed all day. Another 4-6" of fresh. Stayed cold. It appears that the mid/lower elevation snowpack that was isothermal a couple of days ago has somewhat refrozen(10 degrees here in Cooke now). It kept the faceplants at bay at least. The dense snow that fell a few days ago seems to be bonded and yesterday's snow bonded as well. There was a bit of wind in between yesterday's squalls. Should be a stellar day today.

Region

Cooke City

Location (from list)

Republic Mountain

Observer Name

Steve Dober