

The crown of a small avalanche that caught and carried a skier in the Bridger Range on Sunday.

From Obs: "While skiing the playground, a northeast aspect off the Bridgers, my friends and I released a wind slab. The slab released on a rollover and was approximately 20 ft wide and 6-12" deep at the top. The slide carried my friend about 150 ft." Photo: Anonymous

Advisory Region
Bridger Range

Longitude

-110.93W

Latitude

45.84N

Avalanche Details: Human-triggered Avalanche, Playground

Bridger Range, 2022-01-24