Activity

Skiing

Skied up the southern of the two typical Bacon Rind skintracks (through the more heavily burned area to the upper meadows). Saw no signs of instability (no cracking, collapsing, or recent avalanches).

Dug a pit on an E aspect at 8800 ft in one of the upper meadows. 128 cm snow depth. No propagation in an Extended Column Test. There is weak snow at the ground, but it isn't super well developed or very weak (4 Finger minus hardness).

No wind affect where we traveled today.
